One of the foremost Natural History Photographers in the country, Mark Sisson's career has blossomed since winning the Outdoor Photographer of the Year Competition in 2011.

Running the Natures Images Photographic Holidays Company with his partner Danny Green, has allowed Mark to travel the world capturing breathtaking images of all manner of wildlife. His winning images feature frequently in the BBC WILDLIFE, and NATURES HOME Magazines for which he writes regularly.

He is the true master of photographing genuinely wild creatures and their natural environments in a spectacular way and his presentation includes personal anecdotes from his experiences and a series of stunning images from the colder parts of the planet. This is a lecture not to be missed!
